

After earning her Ph. D. in Epidemiology, Dr. Fern Webb joined the University of Florida (UF) Department of Community Health and Family Medicine (CHFM) as the research director (2001) and later as an Assistant Professor (2003), where she taught family medicine residents evidenced-based medicine, epidemiology and research methodologies. Now an Associate Professor in CHFM, her research agenda focuses on motivators to improve health outcomes, specifically obesity and marijuana use, among African Americans.